Hastings (William, c. 1431–1483), 1st Baron Hastings, English nobleman, Lord Chamberlain 1461–1483. Document Signed, 'Hastyns', Sterlyngsby [Stainsby, Derbyshire], 20 March 1475, manuscript indenture on vellum, being a mercenary contract to fight France and undertaking to pay 1s-6d per day for a full year to a royal mercenary, Sir Rauff Frannceys [Ralph Francis, 1450–1534] of Foremark, Derbyshire, who was to sail for France with Edward IV's army, Francis was to bring two archers, who are each to be paid 6d per day, a contract covering such things as the route to be taken to France (via Portesdowne in Hampshire on 24 May 1475), death in service, foraging, plunder, procedures for prisoners of war, sending a substitute to serve, etc., signed lower right under fold and with Hastings' red wax seal appended (impression indistinct), some age soiling and small stains without loss of legibility, verso blank, 220 x 330 mm

A rare military indenture signed by Baron Hastings, a loyal follower of the Household of York and one of the most important courtiers of King Edward IV. He was executed following accusations of treason by Edward's brother and ultimate successor, Richard III. He is portrayed in two of Shakespeare's plays: Henry VI, Part 3 and Richard III.

Estimate £700–1,000

The photograph was taken in June 1874 at Newstead Abbey, once the home of Lord Byron. Agnes (1847–1912) and William Oswald (1851–1892) were two of the six children of Dr David and Mary Livingstone. William Frederick Webb was a friend and fellow explorer. The two Africans standing on the left are James Chuma and Abdullah Susi, Livingstone’s loyal attendants who travelled with him for many years and brought his body to the coast after his death at Ilala in 1873. The man seated on the ground between them, with one foot on the lion skin, is the clergyman, missionary and anti-slavery activist Horace Waller, a close associate of David Livingstone’s who edited the explorer’s journals after his death.

DECORATIVE PRINTS

All lots unframed unless otherwise stated

To commence at 10am

1* After Joseph Mallord William Turner (1775–1851). St Benedetto, looking towards Fusina, circa 1870, watercolour heightened with bodycolour on wove, some scattered spotting, mount aperture 46.5 x 68 cm (18 1/4 x 26 3/4 ins), framed and glazed (74 x 97 cm), printed George Rowney & Compy. label to backboard

The original oil painting on canvas by Turner was exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1843, measuring 62.5 x 92 cm. It was accepted by the nation as part of the Turner Bequest in 1856 and transferred to the Tate Gallery in 1968 (Ref: N00534). Ruskin commented that the title was partly imaginary, with no church of San Benedetto being visible in reality. Several buildings to the right in the painting were also imaginary in their detail. An engraving of the original by Turner was by James Charles Armytage published 1859–61, captioned 'Approach to Venice'. An example of the print held at the Tate has a manuscript correction to the title 'St Benedetto, looking towards Fusina RA 1843'.

A rare image of the Cambridge bookseller, John Nicholson, known as "Maps". The engraving depicts Nicholson crossing the Trinity College Great Court with a pile of books, on his way to deliver them to an undergraduate or fellow. The engraving was published at the request of the students and fellows of the university, but Nicholson would have been only too aware of its power as an advertisement for his services and wares, although he promised to give any proceeds from the sale of the print to Addenbrookes Hospital. Nicholson was affectionately referred to as "Maps" by students and fellows of the University, supposedly for his catchphrase "Maps and Pictures" that he would cry out at the base of college staircases. The original oil portrait hangs in Cambridge University Library.

Humphrey, Feby. 1st 1802, etched caricature with contemporary hand-colouring, trimmed to the neat line, some adhesion scarring to the verso, 250 x 345 mm*

BM Satires numbers 10473 & 9932. Two social caricatures. The second shows four ladies seated around a table, whilst one reads aloud. The expressions on their faces would suggest that the contents of the book(s) are titillating, scandalous and salacious - or possibly all three. A volume on the table is labelled 'The Monk'; intended to suggest that the book being read is one of the three volumes of the hugely successful and scandalous novel by that name published by Matthew ("Monk") Lewis in 1796. The book was regarded as so salacious that it only narrowly escaped prosecution for indecency. The title of the caricature - Tales of Wonder - is also the name of an anthology of poems by Matthew Lewis. It is more than likely that Gillray's print is commercially linked with the Lewis collection and that Lewis may well have decided to commission Gillray to help advertise his works. This argument is confirmed by the slightly later state which carries a dedication to Lewis and explicitly advertises the connection between the caricature and the author of 'The Monk'.

Phillips March 20th 1787, uncoloured etching on laid, slight creasing, torn in the lower right corner with loss to margin but no affecting the printed image, 270 x 375 mm

BM Satires. The first item is number 7013. This semi-pornographic scene of a drunken Mary Eleanor Lyon, Countess of Strathmore, was published anonymously. This print which is not dated, was signed 'JS' to make it look as if it was the work of the Pittite caricaturist James Sayer. The print was probably sponsored by Lady Strathmore's husband (the figure behind the screen) or someone in his circle such as the Duke of Norfolk. The defamation of the Countess, who was said to prefer her cats to her son, may also have been made in the hope that the Countess would pay to suppress it (in Clayton's words the 'intersection between blackmail and pornography'). She is depicted bare-breasted, suckling two cats and raising a glass of gin whilst a servant standing behind her, invites her to bed. In the background, her land agent, James Farrer, inspects a map of her estates. Farrer was the man Lord Strathmore accused of having an affair with his wife. The caricature has enabled Gillray to accuse the Countess of being an unnatural and perverse mother, who rejects her son and cuckolds her husband. Lord Strathmore probably hoped that this would help him counter the divorce proceedings that the Countess brought against him. It failed because the countess won her divorce, which was a highly unusual victory for a woman at this time. T. Clayton, 'James Gillray, a Revolution in Satire', p. 103

128* Gillray (James). The Loss of the Faro-Bank; or The Rook's Pigeon'd. "When Greek meets Greek then comes the tug of War!" published by H. Humphrey, February 2nd 1797, etching with contemporary hand-colouring, thread margins, some old adhesion scarring to verso, 250 x 355 mm

BM Satires number 9078. One of four satirical prints produced by Gillray on the subject of illegal gambling, facilitated by 'ladies of fashion'. On this occasion, the somewhat portly Lady Buckinghamshire is made aware that her 'bank' of £500 has been stolen. Several commentators suggested that Lady Buckingham herself was responsible for the disappearance of the money, and a subsequent trial for illegal gambling further sated the public's salacious appetites. Gillray - never one to miss an opportunity to satirise Whig politicians - includes Fox and Sheridan among the gamblers around the table. Gillray's satire is completed by the caption to the print derived from the play The Rivals (1677) by Nathaniel Lee: 'When Greek meet Greek, then comes the tug of war'; emphasising the point that all the participants were thieves and cheats and all of them were guilty.

132* Gillray (James). The Reception in Holland, published by H. Humphrey, September 8th, 1799, etching on wove with contemporary hand-colouring, trimmed to the neatline, some old adhesion scarring to the verso, 255 x 355 mm

BM Satires number 9414. The print shows William V, the Prince of Orange and Stadtholder of the Netherlands, returning to the homeland from which he had been ousted by the French-assisted Batavian Revolution. Sadly the events depicted never happened. The corpulent and lazy prince was "Comfortably installed at [Hampton Court Palace] where he was more interested in the conquest of servant girls than in any effort to repossess his country." (Robin Reilly). It was his son, the "Hereditary Prince" who accompanied the British and Russian troops as they invaded Holland and tried to reassert Orangist control. And in Scheveningen, as in most of inland Holland, there was no celebration at all but, in fact, active resistance from the Dutch Batavians even before the French came to their assistance. Early victories were splashed across the London newspapers, but the expected collapse, and the welcoming crowds did not follow these initial victories. In October, well after Gillray's print appeared, it had become clear that the support for the Orangist cause had been vastly overestimated and by November 19th, the British had surrendered and were on their way home.

A weak and enfeebled James Fox, whose swollen legs no longer enable him to stand unaided, is helped to his feet by Thomas Erskine and Harvey Combe. He addresses his followers in the manner of a dying man whose political race is run. Gillray and Fox were both somewhat premature in this depiction of a man giving his own eulogy as Fox was to live for another six years.

BM Satires number 8885. A social caricature of a game at whist. 'Betty' on the left, produces the ace of spades, with which she is about to take her seventh consecutive trick. Her fellow card players appear less than pleased. Her mistress, Miss H. Humphrey - Gillray's publisher - sits on her left. The two men are said to be Tholdal, a German and Betty's partner, Mortimer, a picture dealer and restorer. This print - although reversed - can be seen in Gillray's 'Very Slippery-Weather' which was published in 1808 and shows the front of Hannah Humphrey's print shop.

BM 9229 & 9229.

A pair of caricatures mocking the Irish and the 'Society of United Irishmen'. They depict the Irish volunteers as only one step removed from the perfidious French, but lacking discipline or military finesse. Jim Sherry argues on his website that the caricatures were produced as much to mock the Irish volunteers as to discourage potential British recruits. 'Portraying the participants as essentially Frenchmen makes it easier to think of them as the natural enemies of Britain, not as fellow countrymen. And the contrast between these impoverished and rag-tag soldiers and the British troops familiar to English audiences with their scarlet uniforms and impeccable order and precision would have suggested the overwhelming advantage Britain was likely to have in any upcoming battles'.

149 Belloguet (Andre). L'Europe Comique, Amuser Instruire, Cocasserie Dediée a la Jeunesse, Paris, 1867, satirical lithographic map with contemporary hand-colouring, some dust and finger soiling, slight staining, several marginal repaired closed tears, laid on later limp card, 445 x 640 mm

The map appears to lack any overt political message and although it is dominated by the large face that is Russia, the latter is not depicted as dangerous or acquisitive of neighbouring states.

"An outlandish riot of different physiognomies and expressive faces whose shapes roughly follow the established political boundaries of contemporary Europe. Most dominant amongst them is the giant figure of Russia, a cultured and erudite gentleman sporting a wide-brimmed hat and wearing a monocle. This may perhaps symbolise Russia's growing cultural self-expression in the fields of literature, music and the arts. Whether Belloguet's map had any deeper meanings beyond mere cocasserie (foolery) is not at all clear. Certainly, it appears to lack any discernible political overtones and claims simply to "amuser et instruire" (amuse and instruct)." Although Japan had surrendered in 1945 and the British reclaimed their territory two weeks later, it took until 1949 for the British Government to make a firm decision not to abandon Hong Kong to the Chinese Communists. It had substantially strengthened the garrison to serve as an anti-communist deterrent, but its primary aim was to subdue internal security threats and reassure both the resident British and Hong Kong Chinese residents and bring some much-needed security and stability to the region. Chinese forces had massed on the New Territories border in October of 1949, but there was a degree of posturing and sabre-rattling in this show of strength and they would eventually withdraw. The map covers Kowloon and its vicinity, Lamma Island, Lo Chou, the Ping Chou Island Group and Cheung Chou.

186 Lowrey (Jo.). Geographical Guide to a Man's Heart and with Obstacles and Entrances Clearly Marked [and] Geographical Guide to a Woman's Heart emphasizing Points of Interest to the Romantic Traveller, McCall's Magazine, January 1960, a pair of allegorical maps printed on one sheet, old stitch holes to the central fold, overall size 330 x 525 mm

A charming pair of 'geographical guides' depicting a man's and a woman's heart. The maps reflect the social and moral outlook of the time - before the sexual revolution - with an emphasis on love, mutual support, understanding and compatibility. The maps are based upon a late Victorian pair of maps by the Kellogg brothers of Connecticut. On the verso of the man's heart is a brief essay on the characteristics a man looks for in a woman.

Proctor 9895; STC 332; VD 16 G473.

Giovanni Garzoni (1419-1505), humanist, physician, and professor of medicine at Bologna. This short tract is dedicated by Thomas Wolf of Strasbourg to Johann Geiler von Kaysersberg (1445-1510), a fellow humanist and preacher of Stasbourg. The work is composed of verse and prose condolences to Thomas Wolf of Strasbourg (1475-1509) on the death of his brother, by Gallinarius, Ringmann, Wimpfeling, Ulrich Zasius, and Conradus Mutianus Rufus. The last prose letter from Mutianus Rufus describes how the writer had passed his Christmas holidays with church services but also banqueting, in conformity with a custom that mixed the celebration of Saint John the Baptist with pagan bacchanalian rites.

Provenance: John Stirton, Royal Chaplain (1871-1944), bookplate; Airth Castle (?), 20th century bookplate.

Adams M-228; Renouard Ascensius III, p. 62; Shaaber M-31.

First edition of Major's celebrated history of Greater Britain, in which the separate histories of England and Scotland are brought together, suggesting that Scotland would have much to gain from a union with England. He provides an important early eulogy of the legend of Robin Hood and Little John, and one of the earliest recorded mentions of Stonehenge. According to Anthony a Wood, 'Written in a Sorbonic and barbarous style, yet very truly and with great liberty of spirit ...' (Athenae Oxonienses).

John Major, or Mair (1469-1550) was born in Haddington, near Edinburgh but moved to Paris where, after receiving his degree in 1494, he built his reputation as a theological scholar and teacher. Amongst his contemporaries in Paris at this time were Erasmus, Francois Rabelais, and Reginald Pole, and he was well enough known to be mentioned ironically in Rabelais's Gargantua as the author of a treatise on black puddings. In 1518 he returned to Scotland to become Principal of the University of Glasgow, and in 1533 was made Provost of St Salvator's College in the University of St Andrews, where his students included George Buchanan and John Knox.

Christopher Henry Beaumont Peas (1924-2005), second Baron Wardington, his leather bookplate with motto pax et spes, crown and initials HB in gilt to rear pastedown

The handwritten note on this copy by Francis Fry on the front pastedown reads: 'Cranmer's Version, November 1540. This edition has 1541 on the title, which is an error, the date is on the last leaf. I certify that this is all the true edition having examined every leaf & the facsimilis are the same edition. The Book is therefore a standard copy. The folio editions of Cranmer's Bibles are much mixed, see my 'Description' of them & the Authorised folios 1611 & c. The title is by the celebrated John Harris has his J. H. 1848 on it. The next 5 leaves are facs. & the last. It is thus perfect a good sound clean large copy. Francis Fry (FSA)'.

The fine binding by C. Cross dates to around 1880 to 1890. Little is known of this binder, who is not listed in Maurice Packer, Bookbinders of Victorian London (1991). One hundred and seventeen bindings signed by Cross are in the Royal Collections, mostly at Sandringham, the last of which is dated circa 1910.

Provenance: Ramsgate Abbey (bookplate to front pastedown).

Adams C2252.

Johann Dobneck, known as Johannes Cochlaeus (1479-1552) was a German humanist and controversialist, born at Wendelstein, near Nuremberg. He studied in Italy, taking his doctor's degree at Ferrara in 1517, and was ordained a priest in Rome. He became Dean of the Liebfrauenkirche at Frankfurt in 1520, and was present at the Diets of Worms, Regensburg, Speyer and Augsburg, during which period he established his opposition to Luther. Cochlaeus was responsible in large part for the flight of William Tyndale from Cologne where he had been preparing the first edition in English of the New Testament, to Worms, where he finally succeeded in issuing the work in 1525. One of the principal accounts of this episode is given in Cochlaeus' biography of Luther in the present work (pages 132-135).

Darlow & Moule, Herbert 121; STC 2873.

Attractive copy of the third and last of Jugge's illustrated quarto editions of Tyndale's New Testament. According to the German humanist Buschius (Hermann von dem Busche) in Epistolae Obscurorum Virorum, Tyndale was 'an Englishman... who is so skilful in seven tongues, Hebrew, Greek, Latin, Italian, Spanish, English, French, that whichever he speaks, you would think it his native tongue'. While serving as tutor in the household of Sir John Walsh at Little Sodbury, Tyndale preached on College Green in Bristol and fell foul of the local priests, whose ignorance he despised, and of the archdeacon of Gloucester. He resolved to translate the New Testament, in his own words 'because I had perceived by experience how that it was impossible to establish the lay people in any truth except the Scripture were plainly laid before their eyes in their mother tongue, that they might see the process, order and meaning of the text'.

Tyndale's New Testament has 'dominated all successive translations until our own day, for nine-tenths of the Authorised Version itself is derived from Tyndale... Our own age can only by an effort of imagination grasp the full impact of the vernacular Bible upon a generation more ardent and narrow in its Christianity than our own'. (A. G. Dickens, The English Reformation, 1964).

ESTC S121940; Sabin 40914; STC 4606.

The first edition of the first printed history of Wales and an important source in the history of Welsh historiography. In the 1580s, Sir Henry Sidney, lord president of Wales, asked the antiquary David Powel to prepare an English edition of Caradoc's medieval history based on a translation by Humphrey Llwyd. It was the source of the legend of the discovery of America by the Welsh prince Madoc ap Owen about 1170, which for 'centuries spawned countless tales of encounters with Welsh Indians on the American frontier' (ODNB).

Sabin 29594; STC 12625; Hill 743; PMM 105.

FIRST EDITION OF THE MOST CELEBRATED COLLECTION OF VOYAGES AND TRAVELS, a magnificent achievement, an epic of English prose and a unique source of reference to the great discoveries of the 15th and 16th centuries 'which has affixed to [Hakluyt's] name a brilliancy of reputation which time can never efface or obscure' (Church). The work is divided into three parts: the Levant Company and early travels to Africa and the Near and Middle East; the search for the Northeast Passage and travels in Russia and Central Asia; and exploits in the Western Hemisphere such as those by Hawkins and Frobisher, Drake, Davis, and Cavendish. Hakluyt met and interviewed these men, and others, and corresponded with Mercator and Ortelius to amass and translate ancient and contemporary accounts — while never travelling farther than France. He was also a vigorous propagandist and empire-builder, particularly with regard to America and the ousting of Spain from its maritime prominence. He recommended the capture of the Straits of Magellan, pleaded for voyages in search of a North-East or North-West Passage, became a consultant to the East India Company and a patentee of the Virginia Company. His small volume of Divers Voyages (1582) was totally eclipsed by this 1589 Principall Navigations in which Hakluyt sought 'to make available the best and latest information on trades and places which England might profitably exploit'. It was never reprinted (rather, expanded for the 1598-1600 edition) and many of the printed narratives were so close in time to the actual voyages that they were 'tumbled in while the book was in the press, making them more vivid and effective, and in some cases the only extant record' (Alan Burns, the Hakluyt Society, 1965). Although Hakluyt was compelled to suppress Drake's voyage from the first edition, 'he appears to have printed a few copies privately' according to Sabin.

The second, greatly enlarged edition, with the first title-page in the second state ('yeres' instead of 'years', and not including the reference to 'the famous victorie atchieved at the citie of Cadiz, 1596'). This copy includes the Voyage to Cadiz account after Eee3 (pages 607/619). This section was suppressed by Elizabeth I after the disgrace of the Earl of Essex in 1599, but the sheets were not destroyed. In some copies sold after Elizabeth's death, these sheets were reinserted. Regarding the map, Pforzheimer notes: 'it is generally allowed that the map which belongs in that third volume, only occasionally found, was not issued with all copies.'

'The entire third volume is devoted to America: 'The Third and last Volume of the Voyages, Navigations, Traffiques, and Discoveries of the English Nation, and in some few places, where they have not been, of strangers, performed within and before the time of these hundred yeres, to all parts of the Newfound world of America, or the West Indies... as namely to Engronland, Meta Incognita, Estoti land, Tierra de Labrador, Newfoundland, up the grand bay, the gulfes of S. S[afford]. for John Iaggard, 1602, preliminary blank leaf present, errata leaf followed by two leaves of Table at rear, front flyleaf with several early inscriptions including that of J. Godfrey of Norton Court, dated November 29, 1711, noting that the "new binding" cost two shillings, armorial bookplate of Phillip Carteret Webb to front pastedown, and of William Arthur, sixth Duke of Portland to rear pastedown, occasional browning and some marginal damp-stains, early 18th-century panelled calf, rebound preserving original gilt decorated spine with red morocco title label, joints cracked, small 4to

Provenance: John Godfrey of Norton Court, near Faversham, Kent (bookplate). The Royal Society hold a manuscript account by him of the total lunar eclipse of 1729.

STC 4615.

The first edition of Carew's pioneering county history, which is "above all a representation of Cornwall as its author saw it, in terms of the landscape and climate, and of the occupations of men and women whose lives these shaped. Such matters as the local tin mines, the fishing industry, and the games people played, including hurling, all come within the compass of his lively pen." (ODNB). The volume includes valuable descriptions of Cornish topography, industries, sports, and pastimes, with accounts of miracle plays, tin mining, the pilchard industry, and agriculture, written in characteristic and pleasantly entertaining Elizabethan prose.

Wing P1989.

Sir Robert Viner was a wealthy goldsmith and banker who became the King's goldsmith after the restoration of the monarchy. He was the third son of William Vyner (or Viner), of Eathorpe in Warwickshire, and his second wife Susanna, daughter of Francis Fulwood of Middleton Hall in Derbyshire. He was apprenticed to his uncle Sir Thomas Viner, a goldsmith of London, became his partner, was one of the Masters of the Mint, made the regalia for the coronation of Charles II, was nominated for the projected Order of the Royal Oak, and was knighted 24 June 1665. He married on the 14th of June 1665, Mary, daughter of John Whitchurch of Walton near Aylesbury in Buckinghamshire, and widow of Sir Thomas Hyde 2nd Baronet of Albury in Hertfordshire. He was created a Baronet on the 10th May 1666 and was Lord Mayor of London from 1674 - 75. Like most goldsmiths, Viner acted as a banker and advanced enormous sums to the Exchequer. When, because of the extravagance of the court, the Exchequer was closed in January 1672, he found himself in financial difficulties and was declared bankrupt in 1685. In June 1688, his only child, Charles, who had entered the Middle Temple and just been called to the bar, died aged 22. This seems to have broken him and he died at Windsor Castle on the 2nd of September when the baronetcy became extinct.

360 Qualifications of a Siberian Hair-dresser.
 Qualifications of them, are worth perceiving, inasmuch as every day every good magistrate and citizen as they pass cannot but be struck with the sight of the liberality of the country and to say as before this time, he shall either cut off the hair, or combed within narrow bounds the lock hair matter. It is a manner of high authority in politics, that a people shall be debauched, prodigious, and close in their manners, before they can be civilized. The present peculiar considerations of this subject and by appropriateness, and the prevailing fashion
 of the age to which we live, will more than surmount the prohibited laws
 of one constitution under a relaxed execution. The exertion of public virtue can alone avert the threatened danger.
 * * * The course of the above address
 may be altered the advantage of it will be manifest.

Mr. HENRY
 SPEER is now arrived in this city.
 I, in fact, a very extraordinary person from Scotland, whose name, we hear,
 is from Peter Alton (Knapthorpe) of name, and a native of that country, who offers his service to the ladies in
 the important business of hair-dressing,
 which, by his advertisement, to try,
 he promises in a manner peculiar to himself, repelling the use of black paint,
 hair-oil, and the like troublesome
 materials. In the course of their address, by recommending attention to the hair, from the effects proceeding from the head, when treated by these various, and large quantities of false hair, that have been cut from the heads of persons who have died of fever, pestilence, agues, rheumatism, diphtheria, or under various, or even through late cardinals, of which we have heard these days at Tyburn. He offers the ladies then he makes no use of false hair, or of any grease whatever, so he fills the hollow of the hair with soft aromatic herbs, which prevent the dispositive effect of that preparation now so generally commended. He desires here in every mode, and engages to make any lady look appear like the head of a lion, a wild, a tiger, a bear, fox, or any exotic
 head which she would wish to resemble; but he does not consider himself to be ready for to any lady who would prefer the form of a lion, a tiger, a goat, a Friesian lion, or any exotic
 head, he will engage to give a perfect lioness. He will likewise give any their rights, and the will engage to in-their little but here, and yet cannot be the same, but in the same way

 which will give, may have arrived here
 which, is in fact not only a means as they are helped with every, and which will hold many months without decay. Any gentleman so late,
 which this profession, may be found

Declaration by the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, July 4.
 WHEN, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth the separate and equal status to which the laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a declaration is due to the world that they have declared the independence of the United States of America.

We hold these truths to be self-evident,
 that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; and whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate, that governments long existing should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly, all reformations to which the people are more disposed to suffer, while evils which they endure, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, perpetrating every new injury, aggravating
 the injury, and the sense and prudence of the people, are such, as to make it necessary, they have a right to resist, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. GENT. MAN. Jany, 1774.

Norman 1199. 'First edition of Kant's Critique of Judgement, which finishes his "critical duty"... The first part is devoted to the Critique of the astetical judgement, the second part to the Critique of the teleological judgement in which Kant denies the possibility that organisms might be explained mechanically, which he had entertained earlier. 'All the phenomena of inanimated nature can be explained in terms of the motion of matter in space and enduring through time, while for living things such efficient causes are not enough - they must be explained in terms of an end and thus require final causes in addition to efficient ones. In more modern terms,, biology, for Kant cannot in the final analysis be explained solely in terms of physics and chemistry' (DSB)' (Norman).

We have been unable to locate a published edition of this title and it is possible the manuscript is a fair copy of an original text by the author.

Kenelm Henry Digby (1800–1880), was the youngest son of the Very Rev. William Digby, dean of Clonfert, who belonged to the Irish branch of Lord Digby's family. He converted to Roman Catholicism after his graduation from Trinity College, Cambridge. His principal works are The Broadstone of Honour (1822; enlarged 4 volume edition, 1826–27) and Mores Catholici (11 volumes, 1831–40). He married Jane Mary Dillon, daughter of Thomas Dillon of Mount Dillon, co. Dublin and had a son, Kenelm Thomas Digby (1840–1893) who become MP for Queen's County.

Provenance: Admiral Sir Thomas Sabine Pasley, 2nd Baronet (1804-1884).

Tinker 2350; Wise 23.

Sir Thomas Pasley (1804-1884) resided at Craig Foot near Windermere at the same time that Wordsworth lived at Rydal Mount. The two families clearly interacted frequently, with Dora Wordsworth noting in a letter to Edward Quillinan on 17 May 1833 that 'Where you are now I cant guess but as Sir Thomas Pasley, who sets off for town this afternoon, offers to be the bearer of any letters, I will enclose this to Miss Booth's care who we think is most likely to know where you are to be found' and 'If it be more convenient to you to send my book to No 2. Portland Place Sir Thomas Pasley who returns to Rydal in a month will bring it for me'. (The Wordsworth Trust Collection)

Presentation copies in the author's hand are scarce, even more so with manuscript corrections. We have been able to trace three copies with author corrections appearing at auction, the copy inscribed to Robert Perceval Graves (Sotheby's, 25th February 1918), the copy inscribed to Sarah Hoare (Sotheby's, 18th November 1935 & Anderson Galleries, 1936) and a unsigned copy (Christie's, 3rd March 2004, The Halsted B. Vander Poel Collection of English Literature).

The corrections found in this copy are as follows. In 'The Egyptian Maid' (pp.47-68), part of the second stanza 'To a full orb, this Pinnace bright, / As nearer to the Coast she drew, / Appeared more glorious, with spread sail and pendant' becomes 'To a full orb, this Pinnance bright, became / As nearer to the Coast she drew, / More Glorious, with spread sail and streaming pendant.' In the next stanza the line 'In patience built with subtle care' is replaced with 'Was over built with patient care'. In 'Inscription, intended for a stone in the grounds of Rydal Mount' (pp. 85), part of the first stanza 'To let it rest in peace; and here / (Heaven knows how soon) the tender-hearted' is altered to 'So let it rest; and time will come / when here the tender-hearted'. Finally, to 'V - The Trosachs' (pp. 13), 'Thrice happy Guest' is changed to 'Thrice happy quest'. These corrections were subsequently made by the publisher.

V.

THE TROSACHS.

THERE 's not a nook within this solemn Pass,
 But were an apt confessional for One
 Taught by his summer spent, his autumn gone,
 That Life is but a tale of morning grass,
 Withered at eve. From scenes of art that chase
 That thought away, turn, and with watchful eyes
 Feed it 'mid Nature's old felicities,
 Rocks, rivers, and smooth lakes more clear than glass
 Untouched, unbreathed upon. Thrice happy Quest,
 If from a golden perch of aspen spray
 (October's workmanship to rival May)
 The pensive warbler of the ruddy breast
 This moral sweeten by a heaven-taught lay,
 Lulling the year, with all its cares, to rest.

THE EGYPTIAN MAID;

OR,

THE ROMANCE OF THE WATER LILY.

WHILE Merlin paced the Cornish sands,
 Forth-looking toward the Rocks of Scilly,
 The pleased Enchanter was aware
 Of a bright Ship that seemed to hang in air,
 Yet was she work of mortal hands,
 And took from men her name—THE WATER LILY.

Soft was the wind, that landward blew ;
 And, as the Moon, o'er some dark hill ascendant,
 Grows from a little edge of light
 To a full orb, this Pinnacle bright,
 As nearer to the Coast she drew,
 Appeared more glorious, with spread sail and streaming pen-dant.

Provenance: Gladys Parr thence by family descent.

Dame Eva Turner was an English dramatic soprano and one of the first British singers in the twentieth century to enjoy a prominent international career. She had a voice combining exceptional power and brilliance, which was ideally suited to the heaviest Wagnerian parts as well as the title role in Turandot, for which she became famous. She sang frequently at Covent Garden until 1948. In addition to the major Italian houses, she also appeared at Chicago, Vienna, Lisbon, Athens and Copenhagen. Her Aida was given in the Pasadena Rose Bowl before an audience of 30,000.

Dame Eva had a life-long friendship with Gladys Parr, a mezzo-soprano singer who studied in London at the Royal Academy of Music. Gladys toured with Carl Rosa in 1915 and took numerous roles at Covent Garden including Siébel, Nicklausse, Frédéric, and Suzuki. She was quickly promoted to perform the leading roles of the mezzo repertoire. Later she worked with BNOC, Sadler’s Wells and with the Covent Garden company, where she was heard during the international seasons as Magdalene, Annina in Der Rosenkavalier, and the Fortune Teller in Arabella. After the war she sung with the English Opera Group and worked with Benjamin Britten playing Florence Pike in Albert Herring (1947), Mrs Noah in Noye’s Fludde (1958) and Mrs Baggott in The Little Sweep (1949). Britten wrote the role of Mrs Baggott especially for Gladys Parr and they maintained a friendship. She continued to correspond with Britten up until his death. Parr was very close with Emmanuel Hedmond, the Canadian-born tenor. Family described them as inseparable sole mates, although they never married.

INFORMATION FOR BUYERS

AFTER THE AUCTION

Online Results: If you weren't present or able to follow the auction live, you can find results for the sale on our website shortly after the sale has ended.

Payment: The price you pay is the amount at which the auctioneer's hammer falls (the hammer price), plus a buyer's premium (a percentage of the final hammer price) and vat where applicable. You will be issued with an invoice made out to the name and address provided on your registration form.

Please note successful bids made via live bidding cannot be invoiced or paid for until the day after an auction. A live bidding fee of 3% + VAT (Dominic Winter / Invaluable) or 4.95% + VAT (the-saleroom) will be added to your invoice.

METHODS OF PAYMENT

Cheque: Cheques will only be accepted on the day of the sale by prior arrangement (please contact our office for further information). Cheques by post will be accepted but a period of 5 working days will be required for the cheque to clear before purchases can be collected or posted.

Cash: Payments can be made at the Cashier's Office, either during or after the sale.

Debit Card: There is no additional charge for purchases made with debit cards in the UK.

Credit Cards: We accept Visa and Mastercard. It is advisable to let your card provider know in advance if you are intending to purchase. This reduces the time needed to obtain authorisation when the payment is made.

Bank Transfer: All transfers must state the relevant invoice number. If transferring from a foreign currency, the amount we receive must be the total due after the currency conversion and the deduction of any bank charges.

Note to Overseas Clients: All payments must be made by bank transfer only. No card payments will be accepted unless by special prior arrangements with the auctioneers.

Collection/Postage/Delivery: If you attend the auction in person and are successful in your bid, you are free to collect your item once payment has been made.

Shipping: Successful commission or live bids will be invoiced to you the day after the sale. When it is possible for our in-house packing department to send your purchase(s), a charge for postage/packing/insurance will be included in your invoice. Where it is not possible for our in-house packing department to send we will recommend other shipping specialists.

London Deliveries: We provide a monthly delivery service to Central London only, usually on Wednesday of the week following an auction. Payment must be received before this option can be requested. A charge will be added to your invoice for this service.

ARTIST'S RESALE RIGHT LAW ("DROIT DE SUITE")

Lots marked with AR next to the lot number may be subject to Droit de Suite.

Droit de Suite is payable on the hammer price of any artwork sold in the lifetime of the artist, or within 70 years of the artist's death. The buyer agrees to pay Dominic Winter Auctioneers Ltd an amount equal to the resale royalty and we will pay such amount to the artist's collecting agent. Resale royalty applies where the Hammer price is £1,000 or more.

The amount is calculated as follows:

Royalty	For the Portion of the Hammer Price
4.00%	up to £50,000
3.00%	between £50,000.01 and £200,000
1.00%	between £200,000.01 and £350,000
0.50%	between £350,000.01 and £500,000

Please refer to the DACS website www.dacs.org.uk and the Artists' Collecting Society website www.artistscollectingsociety.org for further details.

CONDITIONS OF SALE AND BUSINESS

1. The Seller warrants to the Auctioneer and the buyer that he is the true owner or is properly authorised to sell the property by the true owner and is able to transfer good and marketable title to the property free from any third party claims.
2. (a) The highest bidder to be the buyer. If during the auction the Auctioneer considers that a dispute has arisen he has absolute authority to settle it or re-offer the lot. The Auctioneer may at his sole discretion determine the advance of bidding or refuse a bid, divide any lot, combine any two or more lots or withdraw any lot without prior notice.
(b) Where goods are bought at auction by a buyer who has entered into an agreement with another or others that the other or others (or some of them) shall abstain from bidding for the goods and the buyer or other party or one of the other parties is a dealer (as defined in the Auction Biddings Agreement Act 1927) the buyer warrants that the goods are bought bona fide on joint account.
3. The buyer shall pay the price at which a lot is knocked down by the Auctioneer to the buyer ("the hammer price") together with a premium of 20% of the hammer price. Where the lot is marked by an asterisk the premium will be subject to VAT at 20% which under the Auctioneer's Margin Scheme will form part of the buyer's premium on our invoice and will not be separately identified (the premium added to the hammer price will hereafter collectively be referred to as "the total sum due"). By making any bid the buyer acknowledges that his attention has been drawn to the fact that on the sale of any lot the Auctioneer will receive from the seller commission at its usual rates in addition to the said premium of 20% and assents to the Auctioneer receiving the said commission.
4. (a) The buyer shall forthwith upon the purchase give in his name and permanent address and pay to the Auctioneer immediately after the conclusion of the auction the total sum due.
(b) The buyer may be required to pay down during the course of the sale the whole or any part of the total sum due, and if he fails to do so after such request the lot or lots may at the Auctioneer's absolute discretion be put up again and resold immediately.
(c) The buyer shall at his own expense take away any lot or lots purchased no later than five working days after the auction day.
(d) The Auctioneer may at his own discretion agree credit terms with a buyer and extend the time limits for collection in special cases but otherwise payment shall be deemed to have been made only after the Auctioneer has received cash or a sterling banker's draft or the buyer's cheque has been cleared.
5. (a) If the buyer fails to pay for or take away any lot or lots pursuant to clause 4 or breaches any other condition of that clause the Auctioneer as agent for the seller shall be entitled after consultation with the seller to exercise one or other of the following rights:
(i) Rescind the sale of that or any other lots sold to the buyer who defaults and re-sell the lot or lots whereupon the defaulting buyer shall pay to the Auctioneer any shortfall between the proceeds of that sale after deduction of costs of re-sale and the total sum due. Any surplus shall belong to the seller.
(ii) Proceed for damages for breach of contract.
(b) Without prejudice to the Auctioneer's rights hereunder if any lots or lots are not collected within five days or such longer period as the Auctioneer may have agreed otherwise, the Auctioneer may charge the buyer a storage charge of £1.00 + VAT at the current rate per lot per day.
(c) Ownership of the lot purchased shall not pass to the buyer until he has paid to the Auctioneer the total sum due.
6. (a) The seller shall be entitled to place a reserve on any lot and the Auctioneer shall have the right to bid on behalf of the seller for any lot on which a reserve has been placed. A seller may not bid on any lot on which a reserve has been placed.
(b) Where any lot fails to sell, the Auctioneer shall notify the seller accordingly. The seller shall make arrangements either to re-offer the lot for sale or to collect the lot and may be asked to pay a commission not exceeding 50% of the selling commission and any special expenses incurred in cataloguing the lot.
(c) If such arrangements are not made within seven days of the notification the Auctioneer is empowered to sell the lot by auction or by private treaty at not less than the reserve price and to receive from the seller the normal selling commission and special expenses.
7. Any representation or statement by the Auctioneer in any catalogue, brochure or advertisement of forthcoming sales as to authorship, attribution, genuineness, origin, date, age, provenance, condition or estimated selling price is a statement of opinion only. Every person interested should exercise and rely on his own judgement as to such matters and neither the Auctioneer nor his servants or agents are responsible for the correctness of such opinions. No warranty whatsoever is given by the Auctioneer or the seller in respect of any lot and any express or implied warranties are hereby excluded.
8. (a) Notwithstanding any other terms of these conditions, if within fourteen days of the sale the Auctioneer has received from the buyer of any lot notice in writing that in his view the lot is a deliberate forgery and within fourteen days after such notification the buyer returns the same to the Auctioneer in the same condition as at the time of the sale and satisfies the Auctioneer that considered in the light of the entry in the catalogue the lot is a deliberate forgery then the sale of the lot will be rescinded and the purchase price of the same refunded. "A deliberate forgery" means a lot made with intention to deceive.
(b) A buyer's claim under this condition shall be limited to any amount paid to the Auctioneer for the lot and for the purpose of this condition the buyer shall be the person to whom the original invoice was made out by the Auctioneer.
9. Lots may be removed during the sale after full settlement in accordance with 4(d) hereof.
10. All goods delivered to the Auctioneer's premises will be deemed to be delivered for sale by auction unless otherwise stated in writing and will be catalogued and sold at the Auctioneer's discretion and accepted by the Auctioneer subject to all these conditions. In the case of miscellaneous books, the Auctioneer reserves the right to extract and dispose of books that, in the opinion of the Auctioneer at his absolute discretion, have no saleable value and, therefore, might detract from the saleability of the rest of the lot and the Auctioneer shall incur no liability to the seller, in respect of the books disposed of. By delivering the goods to the Auctioneer for inclusion in his auction sales each seller acknowledges that he/she accepts and agrees to all the conditions.
11. (a) Unless otherwise instructed in writing all goods on the Auctioneer's premises and in their custody will be held insured against the risks of fire, burglary, water damage and accidental breakage or damage. The value of the goods so covered will be the hammer price, or in the case of unsold lots the lower estimate, or in the case of loss or damage prior to the sale that which the specialised staff of the Auctioneer shall in their absolute discretion estimate to be the auction value of such goods.
(b) The Auctioneer shall not be responsible for damage to or the loss, theft, or destruction of any goods not so insured because of the owner's written instructions.
12. The Auctioneer shall remit the proceeds of the sale to the seller thirty days after the day of the auction provided that the Auctioneer has received the total sum due from the buyer. In all other cases the Auctioneer will remit the proceeds of the sale to the seller within seven days of the receipt by the Auctioneer of the total sum due. The Auctioneer will not be deemed to have received the total sum due until after any cheque delivered by the buyer has been cleared. In the event of the Auctioneer exercising his right to rescind the sale his obligation to the seller hereunder lapses.
13. In the case of the seller withdrawing instructions to the Auctioneer to sell any lot or lots, the Auctioneer may charge a fee of 12.5% of the Auctioneer's middle estimate of the auction price of the lot withdrawn together with Value Added Tax thereon and any expenses incurred in respect of the lot or lots.
14. The Auctioneer's current standard notices and information (i.e. Collation and Amendments) will apply to any contract with the Auctioneer as if incorporated herein.
15. These conditions shall be governed by and construed in accordance with English Law.

ACTES AND MONV- MENTS OF MATTERS

most speciall and memorable, happening
in the Church, with an vniuersall
historic of the same.

Wherein is set forth at large the whole race and course of the Church, from the primitive age to these latter times of ours, with the bloody times, horrible troubles, and great persecutions against the true Martyrs of Christ, sought and wrought as well by Heathen
Emperours, as now lately practised by Romish Prelats, especially in this Realme of England and Scotland.

Now againe, as it was recognised, perused, and recommended to the studious Reader, by the Author, Master John Foxe: the sixth time newly imprinted, with certaine
additions therunto annexed: Anno 1610.
